

Jay Z & Beyoncé

IRREPLACEABLE

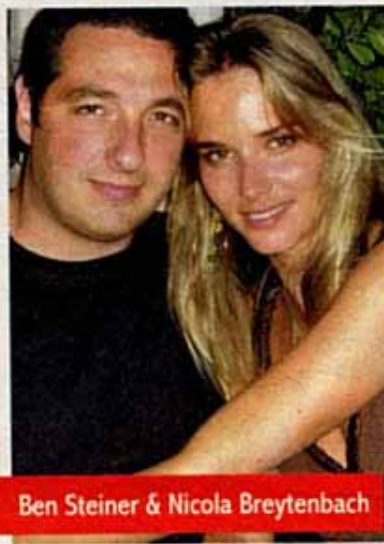

The music industry's hottest couple are as 'crazy in love' as they've ever been. Who would have thought that the 2003 'Bonny and Clyde' hit between Jay Z and Beyoncé was the beginning of this highly publicised relationship? And now they're getting ready to walk down the aisle. According to Entertainment Tonight the couple have been dating since 2002, and are set to have an autumn wedding in beautiful Hawaii. One thing's for sure — it will be the wedding of the year! Guess Jay Z's irreplaceable now...

Selita Ebanks & Nick Cannon

GO BIG OR GO HOME

Three months after rapper Nick Cannon told People magazine that Victoria's Secret model Selita Ebanks had changed his life he popped the big question. Chauffeured in a Rolls-Royce Phantom, the pair was driven to Times Square after a gala event, where a two-storey electronic billboard read 'Selita will you marry me?'. That was the moment when Cannon took out a spectacular 12 ct ring, and like they say, the rest is history! Ten points for creativity, Nick!

Ben Steiner & Nicola Breytenbach

APPLE OF HER EYE

South African-born model Nicola Breytenbach has eyes for only one man — New York business tycoon Ben Steiner. They have been on and off for eight years, and Nicola was quoted by News24 website as saying: 'It's a given that Ben and I will marry'. It's unlikely to happen before Ben completes his Masters in Business Administration (MBA), which will probably be in May 2008. The Sunday Times reported that Steiner asked his model girlfriend the big question in their apartment on the 47th floor of Trump Tower on New York's Fifth Avenue.
