

NICOLA BREYTENBACH might be one of the world's top supermodels but she's also a normal woman, who needs to do grocery shopping every now and again. The South Africa beauty was seen picking out goodies in a store in Washington recently, and what's great is, she didn't feel the need to doll up for the occasion – like most stars we know!

But, while she still does normal things like the rest of us, she does have a rather interesting lifestyle (of course) – mixing with some of the world's rich and famous. Here, we see the star posing for a photo with CHRISTIE BRINKLEY – one of America's most successful and recognisable models appearing on over 500 magazine covers worldwide – in Aspen. Now that's something to smile about – and we're pretty sure Christie's willing to share some beauty tips with the star, too!